The three hijackers: they hijack the plane, because the brothers of the hijackers were captive and they would be set free.

A summary:

Carl and Harald are sitting in a plane. The two men are going home. Carl is the husband of the prime minister, and Harald is his bodyguard. Carl orders a cop of coffee. The stewardess goes to the cockpit and she comes back with a gun. Behind her stand two men. The two men have guns. The brothers of the hijackers are sitting in a prison. That's the reason that's they are hijacking the plane. She calls the prime minister and says that she wants to see her brothers or she will shoot a passenger. She makes a landing on a airport. Harald eats the passport of Carl, because the hijackers don't know who Carl is. One passenger was murdered and the prime minister says that the brothers are coming. Harald would get the hijackers. But one hijackers sees him and he gives Harald handcuffs. The hijackers examine the gear of Harald and they see a newspaper with a photo of Carl. The hijackers decide that Harald is the first one to murder. The first brother comes on the plane and the hijackers let go of 100 passengers. There were men. They fuel the plane. One of the men was colonel Carter. He has a hand grenade. It is not really hand grenade, but it makes light and bangs. He has that, because the hijackers would not let Carl and Harald free. The last brother comes on the plane and the colonel cast the hand grenade. The hijackers are frightened and the other men come on the plane and shoot with the guns on the hijackers and the hijackers are dead and the two brothers were captive. And the other passengers are free and go to home.
